SPRY'S STUPID POLITICS.

An associate of Spry and Callister and Hull offers an explanation of their purpose in killing the Galveston bills, which does little credit either to their political judgment or their regard for Salt Lake's welfare. According to this explanation they were afraid the adoption of a commission form of government for Salt Lake might result in an "American" victory and the elimination of Republicans from representation in city offices.

In view of the fact that the "Americans" already control the city government with disastrous effect, that seems a queer explanation; and whether it is their view of the situation or not, their disregard of the public demand for real reform is not calculated to further the cause of their party in this city. On the contrary, the people here, always loath to trust them or their Republican machine, have every reason now to regard both with disgust as an obstacle to good city government.

If these self-constituted guardians of the legislature had been bright, they would at least have permitted the semblance of a discussion on the measure in the house before they assassinated it.
But in their haste to prevent discussion and the expression of opinion, they, through their dummy speaker, took snap judgment on the bills, laid them on the table, refused any sort of record vote and rode rough-shod over every attempt to get a fair hearing. During all the controversy there was little doubt but that an honest vote after a reasonable debate would have resulted in the passage of the bills; and one proof of this was the evident fear of the Spry-Callister-Hull-Joseph syndicate lest the bills be taken off the table and put to a fair, square test.

The people of Salt Lake understood the situation fully and exactly, and it has not strengthened their affection for dictation in their affairs by men who hold no elective office, have no business meddling in legislative affairs, and have denied to the city the best and only chance it has ever had to secure a business-like system for handling its business affairs. If the federal syndicate wished to weaken the "American" party and strengthen its own machine, it has taken the worst possible way to that end; for whatever Salt Lake may decide to do in its city government, it will not do anything to further the plans of the Spry-Callister combination.
The Thompson administration has been rotten enough in all conscience, but it could not be any possibility be so obnoxious as a term of such administration as Spry and Callister and Hull have given in the state and in this session of the legislature.

TIME TO CLEAN THE CITY.

Last year's campaign for a general cleaning up of the city inaugurated by The Herald proved so successful that it will be repeated this year a little earlier and more vigorously than in 1906. The experiment then proved that the movement was in favor with everybody and that it needed only a little publicity and direction to secure the co-operation of nearly every man, woman and child in Salt Lake.

It is proposed this year to secure photographs of front and back yards, of vacant lots, alleyways and such streets as seem to need special attention, and use these pictures as illustrations of what ought and what ought not to be civic conditions in a municipality like this. Possibly within a week or ten days the campaign will be in shape to make a sort of continued story from day to day showing which neighborhoods and districts are most neglectful, and which offer little inducement for residents who consider surroundings a factor in the comfort and enjoyment of life.

In a way, Spokane's example will be followed in outlining the program of petition for a cleaner city. Last year Spokane set apart one day for this sort of work and was led by Mayor Daggett, who is evidently a progressive man. About 50,000 men, women and children are expected to take part in Spokane's celebration this year. Not only will they see that the city is made presentable, but they will plant trees as part of their municipal devotional service. Last year they set out over 10,000 trees and shrubs, and the performance will be repeated again this year. While Salt Lake usually does its planting on Arbor day, there is no reason why planting should not be part of the renovation day's work, too.

Meanwhile it might be well for Salt Lakers to begin their preparations by doing a little inspection work around their own premises. The Herald expects to give prizes again this year, as it did last, for the prettiest yards and flowers under the auspices of the Civic League; and those who expect to enter for prizes couldn't find a better time or conditions to prepare for it than right now. Possibly the interest stimulated among private citizens in this work may stir up the city authorities to more activity in sanitary work. In any event, it affords a chance to make the city more attractive and habitable, it gives splendid returns for a small investment, and it serves to engender a spirit of civic pride which is a great factor in the progress of any community.

Now is the time to get in and clean the city.

THE PRESIDENTIAL SEASON.

The presidential season, as far as the Republicans are concerned, seems to have opened. From Washington comes a report of the Taft boom, a boom that is none the less a boom because Secretary Loeb denies that it is a boom. Herr Loeb takes it upon himself to deny explicitly that a recent gathering at the White House was held for the purpose of furthering Secretary Taft's presidential ambition. Governor Deenen of Illinois, who attended the meeting, refused to be interviewed on the subject.

The chances are, since Herr Loeb enters so strong a denial, that something was really said at the meeting about the Taft aspirations. Perhaps the president is in earnest, after all, in his statement that he will under no circumstances be a candidate again for the presidency. But if he is for Taft, what is to become of Root? Has the secretary of state been dropped out of the executive calculations, or is Taft to be put forward as a stalking horse for Root? A wide field of speculation is opened by the White House conference and the denials growing out of it.

In the dispatches published yesterday was some talk about another Republican candidate, Fairbanks, the Indiana iceberg. The vice president's candidacy was formally launched at a reception given in his honor in Chicago. There is a general impression that Fairbanks was promised the nomination at Chicago in 1904 in exchange for his acceptance of the vice presidential nomination, an honor that Mr.
Fairbanks cordially did not want. Still, in view of the assurances of the leaders that they would support him in 1908, he accepted the cold-storage place.
The story seemed reasonable when it was first told, and it seems reasonable now. It is extremely doubtful, though, if the men who made the pledge will find it possible to deliver the goods, even if they desire to deliver them.

Fairbanks would not be a popular candidate. It would take a tremendous wave of Republican sentiment to carry him into office, and there are no indications just now of a great stirring of popular sentiment in favor of the Republican party. Taft and Root are almost sure to be factors in the Republican convention. Secretary Shaw will hardly get enough votes to make any sort of showing. In the meanwhile some new man may spring into public favor and carry the old leaders off their feet. Governor Hughes of New York is a strong possibility. If he makes a good record in his present position.

But when all is said and done, a certain gentleman from Nebraska, William Jennings Bryan, must be reckoned with. Mr. Bryan seems sure of the Democratic nomination, and just as certainly no other man has the same chance to beat any Republican nominee. Roosevelt, Root and Taft would be easy for Bryan.

As soon as their legislative duties are finished, Messrs. Spry, Callister, Hull, et al. will adjourn and give their justly celebrated imitation of federal officials drawing salaries for mighty little work.

Still, if Joseph would agree to stay in Washington during his whole term, the state might forgive his election to congress. But it would certainly be hard on congress.

The attention of the new water commission is prayerfully directed by the Sagebrush Sage to South State street.
Somebody is liable to file a claim on it at any minute.

A jewelry store in Los Angeles was robbed Saturday night. Wonder if Chief Sheets will see in this fact a clue to the present whereabouts of W. H.
Parrent.

If you swallowed a barrel or two of dust on Main street yesterday, you knew that Jake Raleigh is still the alleged supervisor of streets in Salt Lake.

Anyway, there is something to be thankful for. The legislature might have stayed in session longer if there had been any salary in it.

It was very kind of Spry and Callister not to charge the state per diem and mileage for their attendance on the legislature.

The legislature might have done worse—but not much.

SOCIETY

An enjoyable affair was a luncheon given Monday afternoon at the Commercial club by Henry E. Browne, who is entertaining Clifton G. Buchanan and wife of Boston, F. J. Anglim of New York and Miss Eva M. Anglim, in honor of his guests and of H. L. A. Cul-mer, after which a party were entertained by Mr. Culmer with a private view of his paintings at his office and studio.

The party included Mr. and Mrs. C.
Buchanan of Boston, F. J. Anglim of New York, Miss Eva M. Anglim of Brooklyn, Mass.; H. L. A. Culmer, P. J.
Donohue, Mrs. Judge D. M. Hagan, Mrs. M. Perkins, Mrs. B. L. Conrod, Mrs. W. J. Wolstenholme, W. L. Good-sell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sanborn and E. P. Williams.

After the luncheon, which was entirely informal, Mr. Browne's guests were given a private view of Mr. Culmer's greatest creation, "The Mystery of the Desert," and several other notable productions of his. In the evening Mr. Browne and his eastern friends were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. F. E.
Browning at their home, 573 Seventh East street.

Cards have been received by their friends in this city for the wedding of Miss Helen Lees, daughter of Mrs.
Christine Lees, formerly of this city, to Otto Ludwig Zeus. The marriage will take place Wednesday, April 3, in San Francisco, where the Lees have made their home for some years.

Lyster Chambers, brother of Mrs. W.
P. Kiser, and well known in theatrical circles, will be here the latter part of the week with the Harry Leighton stock company. Mr. Chambers will be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kiser during his stay.

A number of theatre parties are arranged for this evening to witness the opening performance of "Madame Butterfly." Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Cook will entertain a party of friends, and D. H. Peery will give a stall party.

cards for a second exhibit of her Indian pictures to be held today and tomorrow at the studio of Hutchings & Griffiths.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Eldredge arrived in the city yesterday morning from Portland, and will spend the next few days with Mrs. C. A. Eldredge at her home on East First South street.

The marriage of Miss Adella Young and Raphael S. Olsen will take place today at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Young on Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wood will entertain at a small party tomorrow evening for "Madame Butterfly." Their guests will be Mrs. E. T. Hulaniski of Ogden and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Caine returned from a stay of a month on the coast.

Mrs. John Reed returned yesterday morning from a visit to her mother in Seattle, and will spend a few days in the city on her way home to Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Hagenbarth are still in Los Angeles where they will probably remain for the next month.

Mrs. Clarence Warnock will entertain the Sewing club at her home tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas Kearns returned Sunday evening from a stay of a week with friends in Park City.

Mrs. R. B. Turner left last night for her home in Boise, Ida., after a visit of a few weeks with friends here.

Mrs. T. C. Crawford will entertain her sewing club tomorrow afternoon at her home on Fourth street.

Mrs. A. B. Corey of Ogden spent yesterday in the city visiting friends.

Mrs. George W. Putnam returned Sunday evening from a visit of a fortnight with relatives in Denver.

Mrs. J. R. Walker gives a luncheon at the Alta club on Thursday next.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie L. Savage arrived yesterday from New York, and are with Judge and Mrs. C. C. Goodwin for a short time, on their way home to Goldfield.

Mrs. N. M. Hamilton is back from the east, where she has spent the past few weeks since her return from abroad.

Mrs. C. C. Slade has returned from a stay of some weeks in Los Angeles.

Dr. and Mrs. E. D. Hammond are now at home at 30 Kensington apartments.

erary club meets this morning in the club house.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace T. Perham are guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Midgley, 245 Fifth East street, on their way to Butte after a visit in California.

Mrs. W. A. Leatham entertained the members of the Mizpah club last Wednesday afternoon. Red was the color scheme of the afternoon, the decorations being carnations and ribbons. A luncheon was served, the following ladies being present: Mrs. C. M. Fallou, Mrs. G. R. Cleveland, Mrs. R. M.
Blackmar, Mrs. J. F. Kirk, Mrs. R. B.
Woolley and Mrs. A. J. Scott.
